REMEMBER School
Banking is on Tuesdays

I can see the snow falling softly on the ground. Ponds are frozen over and not a single bird in sight. Everything is cold and damp. Snowmen are everywhere!

I hear the fire crackling out of the fire place. I can hear the wind in the trees. I can hear the wind blowing on the window panes. I can hear the children yelling in the streets enjoying themselves as they are running around having loads of fun, playing in the white shiny snow, throwing it.

I smell the porridge mum is cooking on the stove. I smell the fire as the smoke drifts out of the gap of the fireplace. I feel the wet on my cheeks from the fog.

I taste the hot milo tickling my throat and the warm pie in my tummy. I taste the warm milk on my tongue and the warm soup and the porridge in my stomach. I love winter!

When you truly want to heal and grow

Do you really want to release your pain?

Are you really willing to feel through what is needed for healing to occur?

Are you willing to face your personal truth?

Are you willing to uncover your fears?

Are you willing to experience the benefits of feeling alive, joyful and full of passion?

Cut to the chase and discover through a process whether you really want to heal and grow into your full potential. Your words may be saying "of course!", but your emotional body containing all your fears may be saying something entirely different.

If it is revealed that your willingness is not there, come and find out why and what deep beliefs and emotions are blocking you.

Find out your true fears and desires and save yourself years of therapy!

With 20 years experience Laura is Confidant in her ability to assist your healing process
